

40 years of SDS

what we have learned

Professor Tim Stainton works at the University of British Columbia School of Social Work and is Co-Director of the Canadian Institute for Inclusion and Citizenship. He is one of the most important pioneers in the field of self-directed support, working as a practitioner, a policy maker and researcher. He contributed to the Seattle 2000 Declaration on Self-Determination & Individualised Funding and has advised many international initiatives on Self-Directed Support. Tim will be interviewed by Dr Simon Duffy of the Centre for Welfare Reform and Citizen Network.

Sign up: https://www.lyyti.in/Research_on_SDS_3807

9.6.2021
18.00-19.30 CEST

Finnish/Greek time 19.00-20.30
Italian/Spanish time 18.00-19.30
UK time 17.00-18.30

The session will cover:

- The long-history of Self-Directed Support - progress and struggles
- What the research tells us - and what it does not tell us
- What are we learning about successful implementation - and the hazards

The session will be presented in English, and with live Spanish translation. A recording will be made available.

<https://www.selfdirectedsupport.eu/>

Self-Directed Support Network